

Thursday, 26th of June

10.00 Introduction, by Director of the committee, Tamara Fortuna

10.35 Break

10.45 The Baltic Shield - what future does it have?
Lecture with introduction about its past, by Atlas Fayzal, Prof. in geology, the University of Copenhagen

11.30 Lunch

13.30 Quantum mechanics and mycological traffic - about dispersion and networking in general, by Agfa Akbar Ali Sjah, lieutn. gnrl. at BIMS

14.15 Coffee break

14.30 Mapping of dispersion and accumulation of the Askeladd theme in the Scandobaltic fairytale literature,
by Espen Dalakroken, polyhistor, Ski, Norge

15.15 Questions and discussion

18.00 Dinner

20.00 Excellently lied - excellently believed - PowerPoint presentation, by the artist group, pseudolDs, Oslo, Norway

Friday, 27th of June

10.00 Science for the desk drawer? - about scientists' ambitions and the fungitive influence on documents' disrepair, by Sture Stark, critic at OSC, Haparanda, Sverige

10.45 Break

11.00 Scientists and artists; heroes in the media age
- do they shade, or are they thrown into outshine by the real-heroes of the past?
by Wotan Stern, Dr. in political science and freelance journalist in BZ, Hamburg, Tyskland

11.45 Lunch

13.30 Serpula Lacrymanx, fungi in buildings, our most extensive and retired domestic animals, by Janina Maironis, stip. at the University of Estland, Tallin

14.15 Coffee break

14.30 From mycos to meal - a collective participation at the preparations of a fungitively based dinner

18.00 Dinner

20.00 Mosaic anti-mycotic performance, artistic contribution by the artist group Mycoteam

21.00 Party and casual mingling

Saturday, 28th of June

10.00 Amanita Muscaria - The sacred mushroom, a flower of the underworld - about the symbiotics between mycos and mythos, by Russula Strazdas, scientific officer of Anthropology at the University of Lithuania, Vilnius

10.45 Break

11.00 The mushroom model - step-by-step comparison between fungus and society - their anatomy and behaviour, by Hlynur Bjarnason, social psychologist at the Mental Institute, Reykjavik, Iceland

11.45 Coffee break

12.00 Commensalism and commercialism - an analysis of two organisms of different branches in which one derives some benefit while the other is unaffected,
by Antti Mann, market ideologist in NOKIA, Helsinki, Finland

12.45 Lunch

15.00 Debate; migration of the myths and growth of the mycelium - a dispersion structure for a new millennium, introduction by Regina Aspazija

THE MYTOS AND MYKOS CONFERENCE
RIGA 2003

Remote past
- imminent present